

Making Sense

by Peter Modell

Preface	xi
The Language	xii
Vocabulary Key	xii
A Personal Note	xvi
The Content at a Glance	xvi
Preamble: On Perceiving	1
[1] The Process of Concept Formation	7
PART I: CONSCIOUS AND NONCONSCIOUS MIND ACTIVITY	7
What Is a Thing?	7
Denotation	8
Reaching For and Finding Concepts	10
Connotation	12
Beyond Logic	13
Thinking	14
An Initial Sketch of the Dual Process of Mind	17
Mind Activity beyond Consciousness	18
Describing the Activity of Mind	21
~ Interlude: Reality and the Early Renaissance	23
The Transience of the Perceiving Subject	25
Feelings into Thoughts	27
Experiencing Multiplicity and Duration	28
Conscious Moments and the Noncontinuity of Thought	29
Conclusions	31
PART II: THE SUBJECTIVE MOMENT OF PERCEPTION	33
~ Interlude: Perception Is a Creative Act	33
The Moment of Integration	35
The Temporal Present	37
The Nature of Truth	42
~ Interlude: When the Role of Self Is Ignored	44

[2] Sense Perception: Sight and Hearing	47
Prefacing Remarks	47
PART I: VISION	48
Periphery and Fovea Perceived Spatially	48
Fovea Vision	49
~ Interlude: Seeing an Object	50
The Intent to See Something	50
The Disappearing Object of Perception	51
Visual Periphery Transformations	53
Limits and Boundaries	55
PART II: AUDITION	56
Periphery and Fovea Perceived Temporally	56
~ Interlude: Surrealism and the Source of Meaning	57
Auditory Periphery	58
Strange Yet True: Temporal Periphery	59
What Do Periphery Sounds Sound Like?	60
Blending Is with Is Not	62
Auditory Periphery Is Not Memory	63
PART III: SENSORY PERCEPTION—A BROADER UNDERSTANDING	64
Fovea and Periphery in the Creation of Concepts	64
Intermingling of the Senses in Periphery	65
To See Without Eyes, to Hear Without Ears	66
Perceiving the Imperceptible	67
Periphery as a Subject of Study	70
Subjectivity and Perception	71
~ Interlude: Re-viewing Reality	73
Noninterference within Periphery Phenomena	74
Perceiving Wholes as Wholes: The Ground for Intelligence	75
Unit Size is Variable	78
A Narcissistic Effect	79
~ Interlude: Narcissus	81
Fovea and Periphery in Balance	81
The Present and How It Happens	82
Conclusions	84

[3]	Sight and Color Vision	87
	The Function of Contradiction in Perception	88
	One-Dimensionality	88
	The Second Dimension	89
	Three-Dimensionality and the Visual Experience of Space	90
	Color Vision	92
	Spatial Conflict Resolved as Depth; Temporal Conflict Resolved as Color	95
	The Quality of Depth and the Quality of Color	96
	Ascent through Different Dimensions	98
	It Is Subjective, but I Didn't Do It!	98
	The Surprising Fact of What Constitutes Sight	99
	~ Interlude: Fun with Interference Patterns	100
	Conclusions	101
[4]	The Word Mind and What It Signifies	103
	PART I: MIND AS A NOUN	104
	A Suggestion to the Reader	104
	Initial Examples	104
	Mind and Knowing	106
	PART II: MIND AS A VERB	107
	Set 1: To Mind , Signifying Caring	108
	With What Do You Mind	110
	Minding Interrupted by an Intrusion	110
	Minding—Before and After an Intrusion	111
	To Be Mindful	112
	Summary of Set 1	112
	Set 2: To Mind , Signifying Being Disturbed	112
	Self Awakens to a Disturbance	113
	Many Separate I 's	115
	Query 1: Why Does To Mind Signify Aversion?	116
	Query 2: Why the Reversal of Subject and Object?	117
	Reflections on What Was Found So Far	119
	PART III: PLEASURE AND DISPLEASURE IN MIND ACTIVITY	120
	Describing Qualities	120
	Two Contrasting Experiences of Mind	120
	CONCLUSIONS	123

[5]	Intent: What It Is	125
	Intention: A Constant Companion of All That Lives	125
	~ Interlude: Ubiquitous Intent	126
	Preliminary Remarks	127
	An Important Caveat about Individual Distinctions	128
	Preview of the Trajectory of the Two Chapters on Intent	130
	Keeping an Open Mind	131
	Subtleties of Intent	133
	~ Interlude: Humility	138
	Intent: Distinct from Thought	139
	Intent: Cleansed of Thinking	139
	Intent in Objects	142
	Intent with No Ascertainable Source	143
	Intent and Reality	145
	Whose Intent Is It?	147
	~ Interlude: La Gestion Mentale	148
[6]	Intent: How It Functions	151
	~ Interlude: The Anthill	152
	Taking Form; Losing Randomness	152
	Nonmaterial Presence	153
	Transmitting Intent	153
	Looking for the Unity of Self	154
	Formative Influence	155
	A Sense That Perceives Integration	157
	~ Interlude: Intent and the Cultivation of Values	160
	Intent versus Entropy	161
	A Synopsis: The Intent Circuit	165
	The Emerging Vision	167
	Where Past Becomes Present and Present Intimates Future	169
	~ Interlude: Romanticism and the Pursuit of Meaning	171
	The “Motor” That Runs the World	172
	A View of Evolution	173
	Thinking and the Action of Intent	174
	Beyond Meaninglessness	176

[7]	The Self We Know as “I”	177
	Understanding Subjectivity	177
	Who Is I?	177
	Forming the Concept of I	180
	Self as Belonging	182
	~ Interlude: The Song and the Silence	185
	The Disappearing Self	186
	~ Interlude: Cooperation	189
	A Dynamic View of Self	191
	A Pause to Consolidate What Has Emerged So Far	194
	An Impersonal View of Self	195
	From Impersonal to Personal	196
	To Everything a Spirit	196
	~ Interlude: The Reign of Objectivity	197
	Self as Precursor to the World	198
	When We Say I	200
	Consciousness and Self-Consciousness	202
	Multiple I's	203
	The First of Two Summaries	204
	A Summary in Dialogue Form	205
[8]	Induction Contrasted with Causality	213
	Conclusions That Will Be Reached in This Chapter	213
	Two Lexical Precisions	214
	Defining Causality and Induction	215
	The Integral Presence That Generates Induction	217
	A Closer Description of Causality and Induction	219
	Induction and Freedom from Determinism	220
	Induction and the Ability to Choose	222

Making Sense | Contents

[9] Freedom of Choice	225
Freedom and Intent	225
What It Means That Some- one Is Choosing	228
The Contribution of Consciousness	229
Self in Transformation	231
Choosing	232
Promoting a Way of Being	233
~ Interlude: Direction within the Flux of Events	234
Values	235
Free to Be Me	236
Character and Uniqueness	237
A Moral Dimension to Self	239
Epilogue: A Personal Viewpoint	243
Index	251